PREFACE

THE CORONA SONG BOOK is intended for use in High and Grammar Schools. The three-part selections are so arranged that they may be rendered in two parts, with the exception of a few numbers, thus making the book available for use in lower grammar grades. To meet the needs of upper grammar grades the selections should be sung in three parts, Soprano, Alto, and Bass. The entire collection is well adapted for High Schools, affording great variety. It consists of a number of two-part songs and three-part songs for Soprano, Alto, and Bass. The three-part songs have in nearly every case an ad libitum tenor part, which makes them available for four-part work.

In the preparation of the CORONA SONG BOOK the compiler has had in mind the needs of classes and choruses where vocal music is for recreation rather than for systematic and progressive drill in reading music. It may be used with satisfaction and profit by schools and choruses where any system of instruction in elementary music is followed, or where no such instruction is regularly given.

The hymns and tunes have been carefully selected for devotional exercises in schools. The words are strictly undenominational in character. The intention has been to give strong and characteristic hymns and melodies rather than those that are to be found in almost every book. The patriotic songs, so much needed in a school song-book, are the works of the best composers of patriotic music. The part songs and choruses have been taken from a large number of compositions well suited for the purposes intended, and will be found a most attractive collection.

In considering the arrangement of voice parts in this book, the fact should be kept in mind that all selections marked "May be sung in two parts, Soprano and Alto," are specially arranged to permit of such use. Had it been the author's intention that the songs so arranged be sung always in three or four parts, he would in many cases have harmonized them somewhat differently.

Acknowledgment is due Mr. Stanley R. Avery for valuable assistance rendered in the preparation of this work.

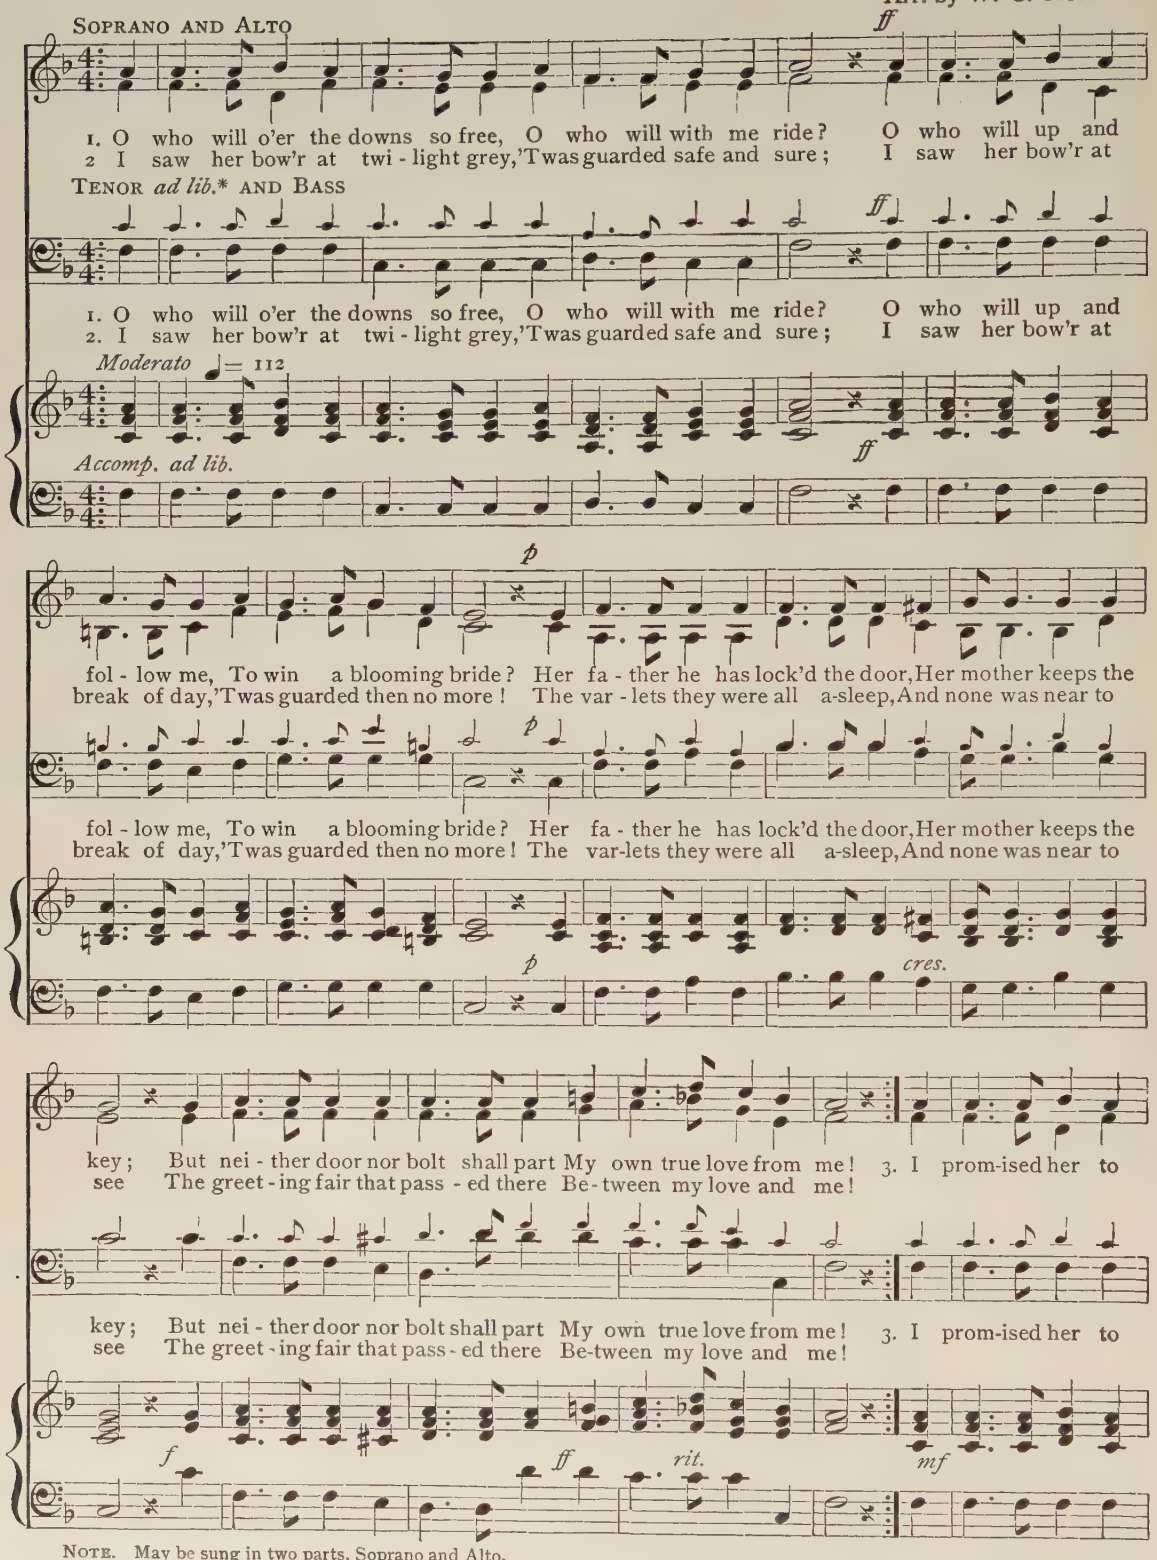
R. L. DE PEARSALL
Arr. by W. C. HOFF



NOTE. May be sung in two parts, Soprano and Alto.
* The small notes are for use in grades where there are Tenor voices.
NOTE. The words of this song are written in allusion to an event supposed to have taken place in the neighborhood of Winterborne, in Gloucestershire. One Hickenstirn (or Hickery Stirn, as he is called by the common people), who lies buried in the church there, is said to have been a knight who lived by pillage. He fell in love with a neighbor's daughter — won her affections — was refused by her parents, but with the assistance of his friends carried her off from her father's house. Such events were not uncommon in the middle ages.

Origin of Hail Columbia.— This popular National Song was written in 1798 by Judge Hopkinson. At that period a war with France was thought inevitable. Party-spirit ran high among all classes. A theatre was open in Philadelphia, and a young man who had some talent as a singer announced his benefit on its boards. He was acquainted with Judge Hopkinson and, discouraged at his prospect of a success, called on him on Saturday afternoon and stated that he feared a loss instead of a benefit, but that if he could get a patriotic song adapted to the tune of "The President's March," then quite popular, he might depend on a full house. The Judge replied that he would try to furnish one. The next afternoon the young man came again, and the song was handed him. It was announced on Monday morning. In the evening the theatre was crowded to excess and continued to be night after night through the entire season — the song being loudly encored and repeated many times during each night, the audience joining in the chorus. It was sung at night in the streets by large assemblies of citizens, including Members of Congress, and found favor with both parties, as neither could disavow its sentiments.
